

Colonial Latin America

Dr. Jonathan Truitt

Far from being passive victims of European imperial policies, indigenous people from the northern reaches of Mexico to the southern tip of Chile helped direct and shape the history of Latin America. This class will examine the indigenous groups of colonial Latin America and the way they confronted, influenced, and shaped the development of the region. Particular attention will be paid to narratives of “conquest” and the importance of historical perspective.

HST 496
(#22088716)

HST 763
(#22111667)

Mondays / 6:30-9:20 p.m.

